“ In addition to being active in the bicycling community, Bob Latsko was also a runner. But, as I recall, he eventually gave up running rather than undergo surgery when the heart issue surfaced. Bob and I took part in many of the same running events during the late 1980s and 1990s, both by design and by chance. The most memorable being one of the annual Oak Apple Memorial Day 10-K runs in Royal Oak in which Bob taunted me to keep up with him in the final stretch. He would look back periodically from his position just ahead of me, chuckle, and point a commanding finger to the ground right behind him. Of course, when I tried to bridge the gap, he seemed to pick up his pace ever so slightly and remained maddeningly ahead!! Another good memory of Bob Latsko was his friendly, whole-hearted belly laugh. So sorry to have lost touch in recent years; he was always good company. --Sandra Studebaker
